What Is A Carmelite?

By Eloise Carwyle

What is a Carmelite? A Carmelite is a many-sided creature that lives in Carmel. But all creatures living in Carmel are not Carmelites. It sounds a little paradoxical, doesn't it? But it isn't.

A Carmelite (he or she) is born, not made, and the first time he comes over the hill he knows he has found the home of his soul.

A Carmelite is a discerning person, with plenty of imagination. At once he recognizes that the distinguishing beauty of the village is the forest coming down to the sea. He loves, in the morning, vistas of blue water; in the evening, pine trees silhouetted against the afterglow of sunset, and glimpses of a sea that is almost as quiet as a lake.

A Carmelite is a child of darkness—and glories in it. He loves walking at night in village lanes where there is no light but moonglow or starlight. He resents the glare of electricity, and avoids it when possible.

A Carmelite loves the wild, natural beauty of the place. He prefers wild beauty to cultivated beauty; likes to feel the earth under his feet, to walk on pine needles and fallen oak leaves.

A Carmelite is a lover of weather—all kinds: sunny, blue days, the sky clear to the horizon, to the very edge of the world; grey days, when the fog sweeps in, shrouding trees and houses in a lovely mist. He loves rain, and delights in the sound and fury of approaching storm, a wild sea whipped by the west wind, an ominous sky, trees bending and swaying before the blast. He (or she) slips into an old coat, pulls on a beret, and is out to walk in it, exulting in the warring of the elements.

A Carmelite loves gabled houses, and shakes for roofing; rooms with vaulted ceilings, and board-and-bat walls of native redwood; small-paned, mullioned windows; a fireplace made of stone from the region, or of brick. And he is something of a fire worshipper; will sit for hours watching with satisfaction the flame leaping round the logs, perhaps a book in hand to which he turns from time to time.

A Carmelite is not gregarious, is not much of a "joiner", but delights in hours of good talk with congenial friends.

A Carmelite looks out upon the natural world with the eyes of a poet and a painter. It is not implied that he paints landscapes or writes poems. He may do neither. But he is aware of beautiful effects in line, form, composition, and color; and his apprehension of experience is poetic, though his feeling for great poetry may be of so high an order that he shrinks from contributing anything in a metrical arrangement of words to this most exalted form of artistic expression.

A Carmelite, though he may have lost his fortune or his pet dog, been unsuccessful in love or in the race for the city council, rejected of editors and publishers, obliged to wear the same old coat he has had for years, concludes that it doesn't really matter, for there is compensation: he lives in Carmel. He takes a walk at evening. A slim young moon is hanging in the boughs of his favorite pine tree, there is a glorious even-

Cole Weston's Lens Catches Flight Of Wood's Hummingbird

Did you ever wonder how a humming bird's wings work? Cole Weston did, and several weeks ago the big freeze presented a tailor-made opportunity to find out.

The Sam Wood family returned from a shopping trip one afternoon during the cold snap to find two humming birds perched on a holly wreath on the front door. The birds were cold and stiff, and apparently lifeless, but a call to the local S. P. C. A. brought the information that they could be brought to life by heat and food.

The Woods warmed the birds in their hands until circulation was restored, then fed them a mixture of honey and water. Apparently none the worse for the experience,

MORE LETTERS NEEDED

Don't forget to write that letter or telegram about the saving of the Butano Forest and the Calaveras Grove to our Governor and our State Legislators, whose addresses were given in last week's Pine Cone. Time is running out on both of these very fine groves and in order to have any effect your letter must be written immediately. Individual letters are to be preferred but if you can't do that, the next best thing is to sign the open letters that you will find in The Pine Cone office. In case you wish to mention the numbers of the two bills concerned, here they are:

The Dolwig Bill to purchase the Butano Forest is AB 2339. The Calaveras Bill, sponsored by 64 Legislators, is numbered AB 1105.

Best Yet Shark's Tooth Unearthed On Jack's Peak

An almost perfect black shark's tooth believed to be between 10 and 15 million years old was discovered this week on Jack's Peak by Mrs. Marjorie McCausland, Sunset School teacher. The discovery was made when her niece, Nancy Newport, accidentally broke a piece of chalk rock destined for her aunt's garden. The tooth was inside.

Described as "a wicked looking thing, black as jet," the tooth is over an inch long, with razor edges curving to a needle-sharp point, and highly polished. Authorities at the Pacific Grove Museum identified it as the tooth of a young black shark, believed to be contemporary with the dino-

Committee Opposed To Redistricting

At a meeting of the school redistricting committees, called by Vincent B. Claypool, regional director, at Colton Hall in Monterey last night, the Carmel committee submitted its report and stated that it was opposed to redistricting for Carmel schools.

They favored the establishment of a Junior College District so that Carmel would be included in the Monterey College district, however. Sub-committees of the other areas were also favorable to the Junior College District plan.

Carmel sub-committee arrived at its decision after months of study on the tax problems, equal opportunity of education, and services rendered by the various schools.

The committee is composed of Frederick Farr, chairman; Dorothy von Meier, Hope A. Raggett, Gunnar Norberg and Gabriel Burnette.

Gail Chandler Is Back In Business Again In Carmel

Gail Chandler, veteran Peninsula businessman, came out of a five year retirement this week with his purchase of the Carmel Cleaners, on Dolores street between Ocean and Seventh. For 10 years Chandler owned and operated the men's clothing shop on Ocean Avenue in the building now occupied by Derek Rayne.

Chandler came to the Peninsula as a visitor a few years after the turn of the century. From 1907 until the advent of World War I in 1917, he was employed in Monterey by Sol Charmak in an Alvarado street clothing establishment. At the war's end in 1919, he returned from Army duty overseas to buy a partnership from his former employer, and established the firm of Charmak and Chandler. In 1929 Chandler sold his interest in the firm and retired.

Five years later he established his own shop in Carmel, in a building formerly occupied by the Cinderella Shop. Again he remained in business for exactly ten years, until 1944, when he sold to Derek Rayne.

On March 1 Chandler takes over the Carmel Cleaners, purchased from John Martin, James R. Martin, and John Martin, Jr., of Salinas. The firm will continue under the direct management of Marion Sanchez and Harry Farley, managers under the present ownership.

FEMININE CARMEL

Carmel - by - the - Sea is the most feminine city in the U. S., Dr. Jos. H. Greenberg of the University of Colorado discovered in a survey of all the cities of the nation on the basis of size and sex ratio. According to the report of his findings in Science Newsletter, there are 10 women to every seven men in Carmel. He accounts for this phenomenon on the grounds that Carmel is small and Carmel is beautiful. Presumably, in Dr. Greenberg's opinion, women are more aesthetic than men.

CARMEL SPLITS PAIR WITH KING CITY; GILROY WINS

Carmel High School's varsity basketball squad virtually assured itself of second place in the CCAL B division last Friday night when it whipped the King City quintet, 38 to 23. At the present time the Padres are tied with Gonzales for the runner-up spot, but the Spartans must tangle with the lofty Pacific Grove Breakers tonight, while the locals take on the impotent BC Cougars.

Last Friday's varsity tilt was a shoo-in for Carmel after the first quarter. Led by Walt Frey, who turned in his best game of the year, the Red and Gray cagers poured 14 markers through the hoop in the second canto to take a halftime lead of 18 to 5. The second half saw the visitors close the gap after the Carmel reserves took over in the fourth quarter.

Fine defensive play by Jim Hare and Steve Whitaker hobbled the Mustang offense throughout most of the contest. The King City boys had a difficult time penetrating the Padre defense and resorted to wild outside shooting for most of their scoring attempts.

The Red and Gray lightweights rode the King City Ponies for three quarters but were bucked off in the final heat. Only two points away at the start of the fourth quarter, the Padrecitos fell off and ended on the short end of a 34-22 count. Bob Burgess, top scorer for the little Padres, fouled out early in the final quarter to put a crimp in the Carmel attack.

Monday night the Padres journeyed to Gilroy to play the game scheduled for tomorrow night, and all they got for their trip was a basket full of headaches. Figuring to have an easy time with the Mustangs, the local boys put on a very lethargic performance and came up with well-earned losses. The Gilroy lads were fired up with a revenge motive and thoroughly outplayed the Padre squads. Although both games were close, the hosts enjoyed commanding leads until the fourth quarter when they put in their reserves to ease the pressure. Gilroy copped the lightweight fracas, 22 to 19, and won the varsity tilt, 39 to 37.

PADRES END HOOP SEASON AT BOULDER CREEK TONIGHT

Carmel High School's lightweight and varsity cage squads travel to Boulder Creek tonight to engage the Cougars in their final basketball game of the current season. Equipped with flashlights, pliers, and snowshoes, the local lads will be prepared to meet the rigors of the San Lorenzo gym. The flashlights will show the way to the baskets while the pliers will be used to remove the nails jutting from the side walls. The snow shoes should help carry the Padres over the gaping holes in the gym floor. Yes, playing in the Boulder Creek pavilion is quite an experience.

Boulder Creek has been the doormat of the CCAL B division this season and has failed to win a league game in either the varsity or lightweight race. In an earlier meeting, the Carmel varsity downed the Cougars, 53 to 26, while the Boulder Creek Babes forfeited to the Padrecitos.

BASEBALL PROSPECTS ARE BRIGHT AT CARMEL HIGH

With 23 boys checking out equipment to try their hand at the diamond pastime, the Padres should give a good account of themselves in this season's CCAL play. A raft of returning veterans gives the local preps experienced players at all positions. Gene Vandervort, Henry Overin, and Art Harber have all tried their hand on the mound and make a well-balanced hurling corps, with two righthanders and a portsider. Overin is a cunnythumb, while Vandervort and Harber are orthodox flingers. Harber can also double as a catcher or outfielder when he isn't serving on the rubber.

Bill Daniels and Don Canham are also available for duty behind the log. Both boys saw considerable action with local teams last summer and have picked up a lot of valuable baseball experience. John Riebe, Overin, and Vandervort are all capable guardians of the initial sack and will share the duties there. Second base will be capably manned by Dick Weer and Paul Artellan, both experienced performers. Dick was one of the best hitters on the club last season and should wield a big stick again this year. Walter Frey, an all-around performer will hold down top priority on the hot corner, with Stu Emery pushing him for the job. Walter played in the outfield last year and is capable of handling the first base position. Bobby Updike, brilliant freshman prospect, will make a bid for the shortstop post. Bobby played a lot of shortstop for the Boys' Club last summer and was rated tops in the kids' league.

A galaxy of good outfielders should be on hand for the first workout next Monday. Neils Reimers, Denicio Narvaez, Buzzy May,

Co. Health Dept. Survey Reported By Women Voters

Almost 50 persons are engaged by Monterey County Supervisors in the maintenance of health among the county's residents, according to the survey made by a study group in the Monterey Peninsula League of Women Voters. The report was given Wednesday afternoon at Sunset School cafeteria by the president, Mrs. Frances A. Ballard. Cost to the county is $1.44 per capita, somewhat under the state average, in which urban health costs are higher. A part of the health expenditure is borne by state funds.

Hospital facilities are fairly good, with two institutions, the County hospital in Salinas, and the Community hospital in Carmel, given first class rating by the American Medical Association. The county maintains 258 beds, and private hospitals have about an equal number, with 108 of them on the Monterey Peninsula. The A. M. A. considers four hospital beds per thousand of population to be adequate. Clinics, except those for child health, are for county patients only. Of the 17 baby clinics conducted, eight are on the Peninsula. There is some shortage of public health nurses, the pay established by the Board of Supervisors being somewhat lower than is obtainable in some other areas.

Health regulations in the schools are set chiefly by individual boards of trustees, as school districts in California are very largely autonomous, but most small districts have periodical visits from county nurses, and the health department is ready to serve as needed, as in threat of epidemics. Carmel school system tmploys its own nurse, and provides a certain amount of medical supervision, such as examination of athletes before contests, and of pupils in case of special health problems. In Sunset School, all children in the first, third, and sixth years, and all new pupils from other places are given medical examination, and their record cards are kept. The district subscribes to the California Interscholastic Federation Protective Fund for Athletes, to assist in meeting expenses from student injuries received in contests.

Other county health department services outlined in the report included regulations for garbage dumps, inspection of sewage disposal, inspection of public water supply, control of rodents, mosquito to control, which is particularly important because of the possibility of malaria infection brought to the county by returned service men, and inspection of milk production and foods and food-dispensing establishments.

Dr. Billie's Garden

By L. A. W.

Speaking of beans (and you can't talk long about a vegetable garden without speaking of beans) it is amazing how much the books know about this vegetable and its esculent — nice word, does not mean juicy—seed pods.

The botanists have much to say about the traits and characteristics of the legume family, to which the bean belongs. They point out, particularly, that not all members of this family produce esculent seed pods, the acacia tree, for example—more exactly, the locust tree. But this is all very complicated and too involved for a simple column like this. Let's keep to our beans.

Books say the big-shot farmer is interested mostly in a kind of bean called "fava" because it produces high protein for horses and cattle, hence is often spoken of as the horse bean. Like many other members of the legume family this big, coarse fellow is a busy collector of nitrogen from the air, so its bush and its roots are valuable manure when plowed under and rotted.

The haricourt vert, phaseolus vulgaris (green, snap, string bean) which has such a succulent seed pod, probably originated in South America, perhaps in Peru. It took kindly to travel, however, and now is common in just about every part of the world. The ancestral seed pods were not very thick or juicy and the strings were so long and tough and coarse they were highly obnoxious. But the flavor was so excellent that the plant breeders and seedmen went to work to improve the anatomical structure. The result is our stringless, juicy, thick-podded snap bean that cooks, Bess says, in no-time flat, needing only a little butter or olive oil and salt as a condiment.

A close relative of the vulgaris is the multiflorus, or scarlet runner. The brilliant red blossoms, from which the pods form, are a pleasing variant from the somewhat colorless blossoms of the haricort verts. The scarlet runner is a climbing, or pole, bean and asserts its individuality by twining up a pole in a right to left direction, contrari-wise to the Kentucky Wonder, for example. The long—eight to ten inches — pods are thick and fleshy, filled with a rich, flavorful juice vaguely suggestive of honey-comb wax. The simpler the condiment used for seasoning the greater the gustatory satisfaction from this gift of the gods. Pick the pods when they are young and don't let any pods at any time fill out with beans. It's the pods and not the beans that have the flavor. It's a hardy beggar, too.

A word of warning from Bess—beware of overcooking any kind of green beans. These perfected young moderns need only a few minutes in the pot.

M.A.C. Presents Russell Horton In Concert Here

On Tuesday evening, March 1, the Musical Art Club will present its first concert of the season at the Carmel Woman's Club in Carmel. The soloist, tenor Russell Horton, is well known here for his participation in the Bach Festival, in which he has distinguished himself the past seven years in the tenor solos from the B Minor Mass.

His reputation in oratorio is already established. He was tenor soloist this last December in a University of Arizona production of the Messiah, which was his fourth consecutive appearance with that group. He was also soloist in Salt Lake City's Tabernacle in a performance of the Creation, which was given as part of Utah's centennial celebration in 1947.

He is at present soloist for the Fifth Church of Christ Scientist in Hollywood and for the Wilshire Boulevard Temple in Los Angeles. Well known for his concert work in that city and all its surrounding areas, he has by no means confined his appearances to California since major cities such as Chicago, St. Louis, Detroit, South Bend and Seattle have figured largely in his itinerary. Audiences have been struck by his warm and appealing voice and gracious personality which combine to make his song recitals most enjoyable.

The concert will be open to members of the club and those holding signed guest cards and will begin promptly at 8:15.

Betty Haskell Wed

In an evening ceremony on Friday, February 4, Betty Haskell became the bride of Edwin D. House at the Silverado Community Church in Long Beach. Cecil Haskell of Carmel was present to give his daughter in marriage. The service was read by Reverend Frederick Jarmon, and Mrs. Jarmon provided the music in the chapel.

For her wedding Betty wore a green suit with a white hat and white accessories and pinned to her lapel a corsage of white camellias. Her maid of honor, Jeradine Lamb, formerly of Carmel and Los Gatos, wore a brown suit and brown accessories with a corsage of coral camellias.

The groom's brother-in-law, Floyd Robinson of Long Beach, served as best man.

Following the ceremony a reception, presided over by Mrs. M. R. Kesler, the bride's aunt, and Mrs. Paul Whitney, was given at the church and attended by about 35 friends and relatives of the young couple. An enormous crystal punch bowl sparkled under the light of white candles on an exquisitely appointed table, the center attraction of which was the beautiful wedding cake resting on a silver heart and surrounded by camellias.

After a short honeymoon the couple will live in Long Beach, where Mr. House is in business.

The bride is the daughter of Cecil Haskell and the granddaughter of O. D. Chamlee of Carmel. Her sister is Mrs. John W. Betts of Monterey. Betty graduated from Carmel and Monterey schools, later attending Salinas J. C. and the University of California, and was graduated from the University of California at Los Angeles.

Her husband is the son of Mrs. Alice House of Long Beach. He attended the University of Minnesota, later serving in a weather squadron of the armed forces during the war. It was during his service with the Army that he met Dick Stroup, who brought him to the Peninsula after the war and who introduced him to Betty.

Betty is a former member of The Pine Cone staff.

the birds became regular members of the household by taking up residence in a potted cyclamen plant.

When Cole Weston arrived with his camera, one bird had taken his leave, but the other was living contentedly in the house. It was fed by an artfully contrived artificial flower, made of a salt shaker filled with honey and water and topped with petals. A piece of string acted as a wick to carry the mixture up into the heart of the flower.

Weston's equipment included stroboscopic light (intermittent flashing illumination) and a 2¼ x2¼ Rolleiflex fitted with special lenses for close work. With aperture at F 22, he took half a dozen shots at 1/500 second on Eastman Super XX film.

The resulting photographs were better than expected, Weston said. The wings are motionless in each of the negatives, and the 8x10 enlargements show in detail how the ordinarily invisible [illegible] ism works. This week the prints are on the way to the New York offices of a national picture magazine, and the bird, released by the Woods, is recounting his eerie experience to his awed friends.

The Time Has Come . .

By Kippy Stuart

Lots of luck is coming our way. Some fuchsias and eugenias are showing signs of life. Many of these shrubs are frozen good and plenty; others, looking just as dead, are returning to life. When March hits the calendar it will be safe to prune dead wood and dead foliage, that is, if you can guarantee no more frost. If we don't prune in March, new wood will be hampered by dead wood, so there you are.

I am waiting patiently to see what future can be expected for status, that lovely, blue plume with everlasting life. All foliage above ground is dead; roots may still be alive. Petunias and stock that have stood the frost will come back faster if several inches of stalk are cut back. Why not experiment yourself by pruning some plants and leaving others? Next year you will know how to proceed.

The removal of garden trash is quite an item. Truckmen have to go so far to dump their loads that the price of necessity is high. A good way to proceed is for several gardeners, living near each other, to hire a large truck and share expense.

Look at our beautiful acacia trees showering the village with gold. The tree that is now in bloom is acacia baileyana. There are over five hundred trees and shrubs, belonging to the pea family, all bearing the name acacia. It is a variable group and serves many purposes. The acacia family provides foliage, fibers, gum, and valuable wood, some of which is fragrant. In tropical countries there is an acacia known as bullhorn, remarkable for its large, inflated spines, which are inhabited by the warrior ant. We don't want that fellow here.

In this locality there are several acacias suitable to this climate. Baileyana is the king of all acacias. In spring the tree brusts into a shower of golden flower-heads, held pendulous against graceful gray-green foliage, but baileyana blooms only in the spring. Acacia floribunda is next in popularity. Floribunda does not resemble baileyana. They are totally different trees. Floribunda has a loose form of growth with long, narrow leaves; all along the stems clusters of tiny yellow puff balls bloom the year around. Floribunda flowers are fragrant. The one objection to floribunda is the litter beneath the tree. It sheds far more than baileyana, so plant floribunda away off yonder. You can't go wrong on either of these trees, but in planting, give plenty of room. They both grow to sizable proportions.

Acacia dealbata, called silver wattle, is all over the Peninsula. Dealbata foliage is fern-like and a darker green than other varieties. Dealbata grows more compact than floribunda and holds its blooms more erect than baileyana. Dealbata is not a dirty tree; it seems to hold on to its foliage better than floribunda.

The black acacia grows in pyramidal form, resembling the ideal Christmas tree. Black acacia is planted all over Monterey, between sidewalk and street. No pruning is needed to keep its erect pyramidal form; she knows where she is going and keeps herself in perfect shape. Black acacia is a coarser looking tree than other acacias, and so far as I know, has no obvious blooms. In the east, right now, florists are selling sprays of baileyana for much monies and here all we have to do is to step out in our own gardens and gather an armful.

Nora Guilbert

Mrs. Norna Guilbert, Carmel resident for the past nine years, died Monday morning at her home at Carmelo and Santa Lucia, following a long illness. She was 74 years of age.

A native of Michigan, she was brought to California as a child by her parents, Dan and Rosa Halbert. Since 1919 she and her husband, the late John Guilbert, had spent summers here. Although Mrs. Guilbert leaves no blood relatives, she will be remembered by a wide circle of friends in Carmel.

Services were held Wednesday afternoon at the T. A. Dorney Funeral Home, with the Reverend Alfred B. Seccombe officiating. Cremation was at the Little Chapel by the Sea Crematorium, Pacific Grove, T. A. Dorney in charge of arrangements.

FORMER AMBASSADOR HERE

Alexander C. Kirk of Washington, D. C., former Ambassador to Italy, and his sister, Mrs. Albert B. Ruddock of San Marino, are guests at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Remsen Bird, and are being widely entertained during their visit.

HI CHATTER

By Nancy Page

Yosemite's snowy slopes claimed many CHS ski enthusiasts over the long weekend, so the ranks in the corridors and class rooms were considerably depleted on Monday. From all reports the trip was a wonderful success, with only a few victims of bumps and strained ligaments. The snow was in good skiing condition, and ice skating, movies, and dancing added more to the fun. The last of the group returned late Tuesday after four days at Yosemite.

Senior play rehearsals are moving along nicely at the rate of three a week, with five practices left until the performance on Friday night, March 11. Jane Eyre is becoming more realistic every time, as new props are added. Furniture and the larger props are still left to the imagination, however. An upside-down wastebasket is the latest vogue in footstools, and another of the same makes a striking table. Of course it's hard to remember not to sit on the fireplace or to walk through the walls, but that's all in the fun. And the boys taking part in Jane Eyre have all looked slightly unshaven lately. Nobody's lazy; the reason is that they're all growing sideburns for their parts in the play. Things will really be on a finished basis, though, when the production is presented in Sunset Auditorium two weeks from tonight. Tickets will be on sale soon, through members of the senior class.

The cast of Jane Eyre, composed entirely of seniors, features Kathie von Meier as Jane, the governess at Thornfield Hall, and Bill Marquardt as Mr. Rochester, the master of the estate. Others in the cast include Benita Updike as Leah, the superstitious young housemaid; Laurel Hildebrand as Mrs. Fairfax, the housekeeper at Thornfield; Jackie Briggs as Grace Poole, a rather strange woman; Margot Campbell as the Woman, a mysterious figure at the Thornfield; Julienne Poulichet as Adele, a little French girl and Mr. Rochester's ward; Dick Taplin as Mr. Mason, the unexpected visitor; Garry Shaw as Mr. Wood, the clergyman; Ruth van Neil as Lady Ingram, a guest of Mr. Rochester's; Jennefer Lloyd as Blanche, her haughty daughter; Ardith Morrisseau, as Mary, her coquettish daughter; and Aram Tootelian as Frederick, a young man with a blank look.

At a business meeting of the Leaders' Club last week, following the formal initiation of new members Connie Melchior, Eleanor Taggart, and Joan Daniels, election of officers was held. Results of voting were Laurel Hildebrand, president; Janice Hatton, historian; and Nancy Brown, secretary-treasurer. The new Leaders' Club constitution was read for the first time by retiring president Jennefer Lloyd, and after a few necessary changes, it was unanimously approved. Sponsor of Leaders' Club is Miss Dorothy Wright, girls' vice-principal at CHS.

The Rally Club brought to a close its basketball season activities with the last in a series of after-the-game feeds last Friday night following the King City game. After each home league game the group has sponsored a feed of cake and milk for members of both teams, served by club members. Those who worked on Friday night's feed were June Updike, Barbie Berg, Edelyn Cory, Eleanor Taggart, Janice Hatton, Carol Templeman, and Carol Smith. Other activities of the Rally Club have included organization of card tricks for the first time at CHS basketball games, planning rooting sections for the games, and providing lots of just plain yelling from all of the members in order to back up the cheer leaders and really make Carmel High's rooting section sound big. The traditional bonfire rally before the Pacific Grove football game earlier in the season was also a great success. A constitution for the club was drawn up at the beginning of the year under Janice Hatton, president. Miss Viola Knoche is Rally Club sponsor.

Winner of the 1949 snapshot contest for El Padre, the yearbook, turned out to be none other than Nancy Brown, a junior. With her trusty camera she produced the prize-winning snap and will be awarded a free yearbook for the picture. Shooting (camera, that is) of groups and organizations is just about over now and yearbook staff members are hard at work cutting and pasting together the dummy. Under Kathie von Meier, editor, the 1949 El Padre promises to be the best yearbook CHS has ever seen. Connie Melchior and Georgann Bell are photography editors, and faculty adviser is Donald Craig.

The list of new CSF members has been completed, and those eligible to belong to the California Scholarship Federation this semester are Bill Albee, Linda Bain, Barbara Balzer, Joe Beard, Ted Brand, Nancy Brown, Patsy Canoles, Hilary Carnson, David Claghorn, Edelen Cory, Marcia Danelz, Joan Daniels, Dick Gargiulo, Marjorie Glennon, Julia Graves, Peggy Hammer, Louise Harber, Janice Hatton, Laurel Hildebrand, Barbara Horne, Diane Horne, Joan Kempen, Allene Knight, Jennefer Lloyd, Skipper Lloyd, Peter Lyon, Christine Malvido, William Marquardt, Sue McCloud, Connie McKibbin, Connie Melchior, Patricia Merivale, Ardith Morrisseau, Gilbert Neill, Nancy Page, Gunnar Reimers, Susanne Smith, Paula Schneeburger, Ann Thoeni, Patricia Timbers, Benita Updike, Kathie von Meier, and Ann Whitaker.

IT TAKES A LOT OF WATER TO MAKE A HOUSE A HOME

AMERICANS are the cleanest people in the world and use more water than anybody. According to statistics the average American family uses nearly a ton and a half every day to keep things spick and span.

Our contribution to the general welfare is to see to it that there is plenty of good water available at all times . . . our job is to gather the water Nature supplies, store it, purify it, and distribute it, and we're on the job twenty-four hours a day.

COUNTY OF MONTEREY)

Elmer L. Machado, being first duly sworn, deposes and says: That as Public Administrator of the County of Monterey, State of California, the foregoing is a full, true and correct return of all the estates coming into his hands during the six months period from July 1, 1948, and that said return shows the value of each estate, the moneys which have come into his hands from every such estate, what has been done with said moneys, and the amount of his fees, the expenses incurred in each estate, and the balance of money in each estate remaining in his hands; that he is not interested in any expenditures made on account of any of the above-named estates, nor is he associated in business or otherwise with anyone who is so interested.

ELMER L. MACHADO

Public Administrator in and for the County of Monterey, State of California.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 18th day of January, 1949.

Do You Remember . . . ?

PARIS, 1910

By A. G. Warshawsky

The Louvre is a great school in which to study the Old Masters, but the more one studies them, the more one is apt to despair of ever attaining their knowledge of the craftsmanship and the technique of painting. The lesson they taught me was that the only way to succeed as a painter was to work constantly, to study from nature, and never to be discouraged. If one cannot sing like a nightingale, it may still be possible to warble like a lark or to twitter pleasantly like a canary. To be born with genius is a gift of the gods, but talent and hard work can bring one somewhere near the goal one has in view. That is perhaps the most useful lesson I learned from the Old Masters.

In studying their works I also realized that however profitable it might be for my instruction to copy their pictures, what would ultimately qualify me for the rank of artist was that which I learned to see with my own eyes, to feel with my own senses, in the living world about me. In art, as in every other branch of man's activity, there are certain homely truths everyone has to discover for himself, or they never become truths to him. Here in the Louvre I was discovering them daily. Here was a universe of painting, or various degrees of excellence and mediocrity; for the Louvre galleries are more a museum than a selected collection—like the Luxembourg, for instance. The selection one had to make for oneself, more or less, which in itself is a valuable training. Here, more than elsewhere, one realizes that the only value in what purports to be a work of art is the individual outlook of the artist; provided, of course, he has acquired sufficient craftsmanship to express his point of view. As Goethe has said so truly: "The highest happiness for the sons of men is the sense of Personality." To the artist the expression of the Personality, provided it exists as an entity and not as a faked product for purposes of self advertisement, must always be the highest degree of earthly happiness. That is why there is a "happy look" about all great pictures, as there is a "happy sound" in all great music, and why there is truth in Nietzsche's affirmation that "all beauty goes light-footed." I might also add that this essential "happiness" which characterizes all true works of art is ample proof, if more be needed nowadays, that the production of such works can never depend upon or be subservient to any organized movement, political, nationalistic, or so called artistic.

My next attempt at self expression was to be an interpretation of Eve, a very hackneyed subject, but one which continues to tempt the painter today as it has in former times. As model for my picture, I engaged a voluptuous blonde, with large, swimming, blue eyes, and the build of a young goddess, Louise Saraszy by name. Once the pet of an American sculptor, who had since returned to his country, she had acquired a fair smattering of English, which made conversation possible, and at times agreeable.

Posing for a painter is a more difficult job than is generally imagined. It takes a trained model to keep the movement implied by a certain attitude, to enter into the spirit of the work, not to slump out and just count the time until the seance is over. Good models are rare, for it takes more than mere youth and good looks to become successful at the game. At best, it is a badly paid job with many hardships to be borne, for often models have to pose in poorly heated studios. In Paris competition among models is all the keener, since modern painters tend more and more to landscape painting or still life, which eliminates the need for living models. The popular female model, who can really be considered successful, is rarely beautiful or even pretty. Her assets are generally some undefinable charm, a native grace, and an evocative quality.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA SNOWSTORM

Strange raiders parachuted to the lawns last night.
Incredulous, I saw them take the town,
While others chose the hillsides to alight,
Till Arctic silver conquered desert brown.

The frosting on the lemon trees will melt
Before the fury of the startled sun,
But thirsty slopes and valleys which have felt
Its sting will drink its quick oblivion.

—Marcus Lytle

RETURN

Night has no garment that these hills may wear
So well as utter solitude; the stark
Envelopment of silence grips the air
In which no wind's sound punctuates the dark.

Not any star is visible beyond
The cloistered shadow of this quiet slope;
If I should call, no answer could respond:
Only the grass can notice as I grope

Across and upward, seeking a lost path,
Lending old purpose to this walk I take,
Before the morning rises to its bath
And day stirs on its pillow, half-awake.

My way is solitary, but I climb
Not ever quite alone; about this place
Remains a remnant of some early time:
A song repeated, a remembered face.

—Carl John Bostelman

WARNING TO SPRING

The princess sleeping in the wood
Has heard the thorny hedgerow quake.
She knows in dream the miracle
That makes the winter fastness shake
(The snowdrops tremble in their hoods
Lest soon, too soon she should awake.)

They hear the silver hoofs of time
Defy the briars that bind the gate.
On, on they come, nor rune nor rhyme
Shall hold the place inviolate,
Nor draw the rein and make them wait.

Oh hush! Go push the violet down—
Go tell the daring daffodil
It is too soon—let silence drown
The wild bird's song, too early shrill,
Heralding hope across the hill.

She must not wake—she must be still—
Beneath the light from these cold skies
Must barely breathe—how pale she lies!
Clothed on with silks of sleep, until
The prince himself shall kiss her eyes.

Have You Read . . . ?

For Us the Living, by Haakon M. Chevalier, Alfred A. Knopf, 400 pp., $3.50.

By Glenn Clairmonte

Because Haakon Chevalier is a former professor of French (University of California) and has already made a reputation as the translator of Salvador Dali, Andre Malraux and Andre Maurois, his first novel is receiving more than usual scrutiny from reviewers throughout the country. On March 1 he will drive down from San Francisco to make an informal talk at Sunset School, in celebration of the third anniversary of the current literature group of the Carmel Adult School. At that time Carmelites will have an opportunity to interrogate him about his reasons for covering the vast number of subjects in this well-knit novel on current life in California —including a honeymoon in Carmel.

This book has all the traits of a popular novel, but it also has historic dimensions. It shows man's inhumanity to man as hurtfully as Howard Fast's novels show it, while it depicts modern Californians at various levels and in various causes.

Dr. Chevalier has turned his unique breadth of experience to the task and has produced a powerful piece of writing, which sometimes reaches almost unbearable suspense and always shrouds the reader as in a tangible danger. This is achieved partly by the warmth of reality invested in the characters, and partly by the ingenious plot which weaves into one fabric a number of executives, ranchers, lawyers, professors, reformers and politicians. The careful detail which makes the story live reveals the deep insight of a writer completely conscious of the possibilities of his medium. From the first sentence —"The last day of a man's life may be memorable for reasons other than his death"—the book elicits confidence in its significance, and the result is a full-blown contribution to 1949 fiction.

The writing which portrays the university campus is such that you are likely to recall Dr. Chevalier's university affiliations. But there is also intimate description of ranch life, and the reader is besides taken right into the courtroom and allowed to hear the trial proceed. A game of chess, or the playing of a Bach fugue, or the race of union organizers along a highway, all become intense and immediate experiences for the reader. You can wonder at the genuineness of every scene and every bit of dialogue, until you are compelled to respect the eye-witness effect of the whole.

Although For Us the Living seems at first glance the tracing of a murderer—and the murder is presented as a philosophical problem—it is at the same time a complicated love story, and also it handles the dynamite of labor trouble. To have covered so much material with less skill would have led to confusion, but Dr. Chevalier has been able to unify his pattern and to allow each of the elements to march in the fundamental story. All the minute incidents turn out to be essential, and the writer can only be congratulated for the perspiration he has added to the original inspiration.

Any first novel, even when by a recognized writer, is an experiment with public reaction. Now, while Dr. Chevalier starts work on his next novel in his study at Stinson Beach, he is listening to rumors in the wind—for he must gauge the degree of success with which he has been communicating his ideas. Although he has been a Californian since early youth, he did spend student years in France and Norway, has frequently visited in Europe since earning his doctorate at Berkeley, and has been interpreter at the Nuremberg trials and United Nations sessions. Naturally he has, therefore, an international consciousness, and it may be expected that his future work will be addressed to an international audience. He can, at any rate, be depended upon to make interesting observations in an interesting way.

SUNSET SCHOOL NOTES

Mrs. Constance Riggin's First Grade

I'VE TRAVELED, TOO!

After looking at a picture showing a group of Chinese children, the following remarks were overheard:

First child: Those boys and girls look like some I have seen in Korea.

Second child: We lived in Shanghai.

Third child: Well! I've been to San Diego!

Looking at the picture of a clown, one child observed, "He's not a real clown because he looks like he has a mask on."

SPEAKING OF WEATHER

When the wind and the cold came our flowers got dead.

—Jeb Schooley.

Our car got stuck and daddy had to walk to town in the cold, cold weather—Bobby Little.

We put out food for hungry birds and squirrels in the cold.

—Carolyn Burde.

Sandra and I went through a deep puddle. I went as far as the first snap on my galoshes.

—Beth Graves.

Mrs. Uzzell's Fifth Grade

AFTER-SCHOOL SPORTS

After-school sports are played every Monday and Wednesday at 3:30. Mr. Blee coaches us. There are three teams—the Rockets, '49ers, and the Jets. We play until 4 o'clock, then two of the teams have a game. The '49ers are in first place and the Jets in second. The Rockets are in third place.

—Mark Hildebrand.

MY NEW DOG

I have a new dog. He's a boxer puppy. We got him when he was three weeks old. He had a little round black face, and great big brown feet. When he was six weeks old he had to have his ears cut. So on Monday we went to San Mateo with all his brothers and sisters. When he came back his ears were faped on his head. Two or three weeks later my father took off the tape. Then my father rolled up some cards and put them in his ears with tape. They are still up in cards now, and they look like horns on a little devil, which he is, sometimes.

—Robin Burnham.

THE CUB SCOUT CIRCUS

The Cubs in our den were in the Cub Scout Circus. The show was started with a flag drill and marching. We were the pioneers and another den of Cubs were the Indians. We were sitting around our campfire when the Indians attacked us. We had rifles and shot them. Then we went off stage. After other dens had done their parts, we went on stage and did some "worst aid," not first aid. We bandaged legs and arms the wrong way. Then other dens gave their entertainment.

—David Bodilly.

SHOP

Our class has shop period twice a week. We can make a lot of things. Mr. Calley is our teacher. He gets good wood for us. There is clay in back of the shop. We can make a lot of things out of it such as an ash tray. They are glazed after they are finished. John Thompson has a nice piece of redwood about two inches deep. He is making a tray. He has taken an inch and a half out. He is almost finished. I am making a tray, too. I just finished shellacking it.

—George Wightman.

THE LONE CYPRESS

The lone cypress is a very lonely tree. It stands on a rock about 50 feet from the sea. The cypress stands there day in and day out. It feels so lonely. But after all, it has many pictures taken of it and put on postcards that are sent all over the world. It is very pretty on the rock where it stands, but it will not be very lonely long because there is another one growing slowly beside it.

—Bruce Kinney.

THE CLOTHING DRIVE

Don't forget the clothing drive which is now going on at Sunset School!

The clothes are badly needed by grownups and children overseas. Anything you have to spare will help. If you have any clothes to contribute bring them to Sunset School office or give them to any child who goes to Sunset. The children will be glad to take them to their classrooms.—Sandra Kohner, sixth grade.

HIGHWAY CRASH

Billie Rawlings, 17, Seaside, was seriously injured Monday night when a motorcycle on which she was a passenger collided with a car at the lower entrance to Carmel High School. Ace Bradford, 19, Monterey Naval Air Station, driver of the motorcycle, escaped with minor injuries.

The collision occurred shortly before 9:00 o'clock, when the motorcycle and a car driven by Joyce Lee Johnson, 17, Pacific Grove, collided as Miss Johnson made a left turn into the high school grounds. Miss Rawlings and Bradford were taken to the Peninsula Community Hospital by the Carmel Red Cross ambulance. Bradford was later transferred to the Naval dispensary.

Pamper your Buick?

You bet we do!

YOU touch the starter—and your car wakens with an expectant purr. You touch the gas treadle—and off you sweep, on a wave of buoyant power. Minutes, miles tick past, with a lift in every one of them . . .

A dream, you say?

Not for a Buick. Not for your Buick, if it's kept always at its brilliant best—by Buick specialists!

We have nothing but Buick specialists in our service department—men who know the heft and feel of every wire, washer or widget under a Buick hood, without looking.

When they do a tune-up or repair job on your Buick it's more than just a scientific, thoroughgoing, conscientious piece of work. They'll baby it a bit—and on the road you'll feel the difference in their craftsmanly touch.

This priceless kind of care costs you not a penny more. In the long run—by keeping your Buick always a Buick—we save you money!

HOW WELL CAN YOU SEE?

Headlights dim or discolored? Let us give you easier, safer night driving with a new pair of low-cost Sealed Beam units.

In addition, we'll line up the headlamps—check generator-charging rate—inspect voltage regulator—clean battery terminals and cables.

Woman's Club Events

A huge success, both socially and financially, was the dessert bridge party given by the Carmel Woman's Club last Friday, even though nary a prize was carried off by the Carmel representatives.

Mrs. Harry Bullard of Pacific Grove won the first prize. An azalea, given by Mrs. E. T. Patee, went to Mrs. Chester Chesholm of the Salinas Woman's Club, and the cake baked by Mrs. Harold Cohon went off to Monterey with Mrs. H. A. Prince.

The Garden Section, whose chairman is Mrs. Pierce Parsons, met at the Club House on Monday. Presiding over the plant sales table was Mrs. E. M .Beecher, who donated a bowl to be sold.

Dr. A. L. Van Meter, director of floral culture exhibit for the Monterey County Fair, spoke of plans for the coming event. "The living part of any arrangement must be in the possession of the exhibitor for at least 30 days in advance," said Dr. Van Meter. He urged the members as individuals as well as a club to send in entries.

Dr. and Mrs. Edwin Hutchings, recent arrivals in Carmel, showed color slides of pictures taken in Burlingame as well as in the east, Mexico, New Orleans, and some night pictures of the San Francisco fair.

Mrs. James A. Dempsey and Mrs. John W. Dickinson presided at the tea table, which was suggestive of spring with Mrs. Parsons' arrangement of cineraria, daffodils and heather. Assisting Mrs. F. E. Naftzger were Mrs. Howard Taggart, Mrs. S. E. Coleman, Mrs. John Drown, and Mrs. J. E. Adams.

English Visitors Entertained

Mrs. Henry Potter Russell had as her weekend guests at her Carmel Valley ranch Mr. and Mrs. Winthrop W. Aldrich of New York, and Lord and Lady Harcourt, who are visiting here from England.

Mrs. Russell's guests were honored on Saturday night at a dinner party given by their hostess and at a luncheon party Sunday given by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel F. B. Morse at their Pebble Beach home.

Mr. and Mrs. Artemus L. Gates of New York will join Lord and Lady Harcourt this week for a short vacation at Pebble Beach Lodge.

AWVS Entertains Press

Women representatives of Peninsula newspapers and members of Fort Ord's information office were guests of the press and publicity committee of the American Women's Voluntary Services Monday at the home of Mrs. Helen Clark Park, committee chairman.

Mrs. Clark gave a brief resume of the history of AWVS, pointing out that while its scope may have changed with the coming of peace,there is still need for the organization, from the point of view of both civilian and service personnel in the community.

Announced by Mrs. Clark was the appointment of Mrs. Kenneth Ray as vice-chairman of the press and publicity committee.

Mrs. E. W. Cochrane, chairman of the Monterey County Unit of AWVS, spoke of various projects contemplated by the organization and accepted suggestions from the guests concerning methods of supplying the public with information pertinent to such projects.

Announced by Mrs. Cochrane was the appointment of Mrs. James W. Moore as chairman of the shop committee. The shop, which is to open soon at 707 Del Monte Avenue in Seaside, will carry articles of all varieties. All proceeds will be used to support AWVS projects. An effort will be made to provide an information center at the shop.

Survey In Progress

A spirited and enthusiastic meeting of Republican women was held at the home of Mrs. Harry B. Gantt, chairman of the Carmel area, last Thursday afternoon. The purpose of the meeting was the distribution of material and instructions to the precinct captains who have undertaken a canvass of the area to ascertain why so many voters failed to exercise their rights at the polls last November.

Precinct captains present were Mesdames Mary Wheldon, Hope C. Spencer, Ella C. Harris, Rhea Dively, Rowen Rapier, Margaret O. Avery, Nora McCaffrey Law, Elsa C. Mix, Emily B. Sherwood, Elizabeth Stetson, Helen Swinton and Edna C. Nuetzel.

Mrs. Gantt outlined the duties of the precinct captains, who, in turn, will instruct the block captains. Maps, precinct lists and instruction material were distributed. The block captains will be presented as a group at the monthly meeting of the Republican Women on March 8 at Sunset School.

Mrs. Karl W. Hisgen, president of the Monterey Peninsula Republican Women, is supervising the overall work of the project.

Mrs. Hisgen reports her gratification with the favorable comments which have been voiced by many interested individuals and groups in this area who feel, as she does, that a thorough canvass of voters may determine why approximately 40 million voters failed our government at the polls in the last national election.

Although conducted by the Republican Women, the survey is being made on an impartial basis, for regardless of party affiliations one owes it to his government to exercise his vote in a national election.

"The eyes of the world are on America," said Mrs. Hisgen, "and we are called upon to share with many other countries. Since so many are looking to us for assistance in one way or another, it is our duty, as voters, to see that our own house is in order, and it will be if we exercise that right at the polls. With this in mind, many Carmel residents have expressed themselves as willing and happy to subscribe to this canvass and to contribute their own constructive suggestions to those taking the poll. With this united cooperation it will then be possible to know the wishes of the voters in this area and present them to our candidates as they come to us for support."

Stamp Club Auction

Following the regular business meeting of the Monterey Peninsula Stamp Club last Monday night, Colonel John Wright, president, turned the meeting over to auctioneer Arch Gibson. Envelopes, sheets and individual stamps were auctioned with good natured bidding. High powered lenses were used in an effort to find ships on stamps, as Peter Ferrante refuses to buy a stamp unless there is a boat or ship depicted. Mr. Ferrante is in charge of the Junior Stamp Club, which meets at Sunset School on Saturday morning at 11 o'clock.

At the next meeting of the Club on March 7, at 8 p. m., in the Sunset School Library, a talk will be given by Raymond S. Gourley, Russian instructor at the Army and Navy School.

ONE OF TODAY'S BIGGEST BARGAINS

How your telephone gives you more real value today in spite of sharply-increased costs of furnishing service

1. For a quick call to the druggist, for business, for every purpose, your telephone is a more valuable servant today than ever. It can run more errands, do more jobs. In the past ten years, telephones on the Coast have doubled. We're continuing to add them rapidly. Result: You can get in touch with more people. More people can get in touch with you.

2. If you could see how much expensive equipment goes to work for you each time you make a call, you might wonder how it can be done . . . for just a few dollars a month. Lines, cables, poles, buildings, intricate equipment—all must be ready . . . along with the people who man them . . . to serve you when you pick up your telephone.

3. More "Voices with a Smile" are serving the West today . . . our payroll is the biggest ever. Postwar costs have shot up all along the line on the things we do to provide service. The facilities to serve new telephones today cost about twice as much as prewar. Yet telephone rates are up much less than almost anything we buy or you buy.

4. There is no way to determine the full value of a telephone, of course. A call may be routine—or it may save a life, make a new friend, close a business deal. Yet a few pennies still buy a telephone call. In these days of high prices, it's good to know that your telephone keeps giving you real value—it's one of today's biggest bargains.

Full House For Lloyds

We are happy to report that every timber of Frank and Marjorie Lloyd's new house is still standing after its severest test to date: six healthy and uninhibited children bedded down for the weekend. Dr. and Mrs. James Hopper brought their small fry, Jimmy, Steve and Margo, down from Sausalito to spend a few days with the Lloyds, whose younger children, Skipper, Marty and Lucinda, tendered them a thoroughly rousing reception. The respective parents survived nicely, with only Jennefer Lloyd losing her usual composure; after one hasty look, the young lady announced an immediate, pressing and unscheduled ski trip.

New Jersey Visitors

A personal welcome to the West Coast greeted Mr. and Mrs. James Werner and their children, Jane, Linda, and James, Jr., of Chatham, New Jersey, upon their arrival in Los Angeles last week. Bill Kappy drove south to escort them to Carmel, where they were his guests for a few days in Carmel Valley. Among several people entertaining for the Werners during their stay here were Lee Crowe and Noel Sullivan.

Engagement Announced

Mrs. Macdonald Brooks of Oakland recently announced the engagement of her daughter, Mora, to Charles Noel Lynch at a cocktail party for friends of the young couple.

Sue, as she is known to her friends, is the granddaughter of Augustine S. Macdonald and the late Mrs. Macdonald, and of Mrs. John Chauncey Brooks of Washington, D. C. She is a member of the Junior League and the Twenty-Thirty Club.

During the war years, which the Brooks family spent in Carmel, they all worked at Fort Ord and were prominently identified with the Red Cross. Sue also was connected with the Little Theatre Group and served as Girl Scout Counselor.

Mrs. Robert Beritzhoff (Barbara Brooks) will be her sister's only attendant for the wedding, which is scheduled for June 25.

Women Voters Program

The latest schedule of events for the Monterey Peninsula League of Women Voters is as follows:

February 21: Board meeting at the home of Mrs. Frances Ballard at 2 p. m.

February 23: General membership meeting in cafeteria of Sunset School at 2:30 p. m. Reports on the winter's work will be given, including a full report on the health survey of Monterey County. Films on the work of the Health Department will be shown.

March 2: Combined study groups meet at 2:00 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Leon Shappell for discussion of the California Direct Primary Law, under the leadership of Miss Lucille Turner.

March 16: Combined study groups meet at the home of Mrs. Shappell at 2:00 p. m. for discussion of World Trade, under the leadership of Mrs. Paul Low.

The date for the month's general meeting will be announced later.

April 6: Combined study groups meet at Mrs. Shappell's for study and discussion of cross-filing, under leadership of Mrs. Edmund Sullivan.

Mrs. Ritter Holman has been appointed historian of the local league and will receive, collect and keep a scrapbook of clippings from local papers on league activities and legislation in which the league is interested.

Members are requested to send suggestions for officers and directors for the coming year to Mrs. Eben Whittlesey, chairman of the nominating committee, box 196, Carmel.

Suggestions for study in local government and administration for the coming year will be welcomed by Mrs. Frances Ballard, box 2625, Carmel.

Everybody's sweater minded this time of year, and HARRIET DUNCAN'S stylish shop is no exception. You'll be delighted with the gay little cardigan sweaters that are the perfect thing for wear from now right up until next fall. They come in a variety of luscious color combinations with contrasting horizontal stripes placed just so. These cardigan sweaters are what the teen-agers all go for, too. And such a price! You'd never believe a smart little sweater like this could be had for a price so completely agreeable to your budget! And here's an advance tip for you from HARRIET DUNCAN'S. There's a brand new shipment of those beautiful, cuddly-soft Caledonia Cashmeres on the way. All the hard to find shades, too, like red, the greens, and even black and navy—colors you know you can't find anywhere else. Just sit tight and we'll let you know when they arrive. No need to tell you that HARRIET DUNCAN'S is on Sixth and Lincoln.

George Washington may have had his day, but he didn't touch the tree that produces those juicy, dark red cherries that go into Burgundy Cherry ice cream. Now featured at the VILLAGE CORNER, popularity has put Burgundy Cherry on the list of standbys. Most delicious, too, this ice cream (as I discovered via direct methods.) Burgundy Cherry isn't generally available elsewhere, so if you haven't already put it on your regular dessert and snack list, be sure to stop in at the VILLAGE CORNER soon and try a dish or take some home. At Sixth and Dolores, on your way to the post office, you know.

It's here! The new 1949 World Almanac has arrived at the VILLAGE BOOKSHOP, and it's a book that's practically spilling over with information. The almanac is filled with current facts, complete in every way. It's wonderful for general reference as well as a good source of ideas for solving those puzzles and quiz questions. Published by the New York World-Telegram, the almanac comes in both paper and cloth bound volumes. And the VILLAGE BOOKSHOP still has the new Information Please Almanac for 1949. It's edited by John Kieran and is another source of what's what and how's how about just everything. You'll spend hours poring over these fascinating books, which are to be had at the VILLAGE BOOKSHOP, convenient to you on Ocean at Dolores.

Light as a breeze, comfy, and oh, so cute are Summerettes, the casual summer sandals you were so crazy about last year. They're back this season in new colors and styles at BALZER'S Department Store, right next to the Post Office. Summerettes come in three basic styles — Pasadena, with its boucle braided vamp; Shannon, the multi-colored braid strap sandal; and Verona, a monks' cloth and twill number in plain colors. All have the ever-popular wedge heel that makes for comfort every minute, and all come in a variety of color combos to go with your casual outfits. Summerettes are washable, too. Incidentally, BALZER'S ran out of these popular casuals last year, so great was the demand. But this season they've anticipated your wishes and are prepared already with a bigger and better stock. Get yours early for the pick of the crop. Summerettes are priced at $3.95 and $4.45 at BALZER'S Department Store.

The MONTEREY HEALTH FOOD CENTER announces Overseas Gift Packages of health and energy foods; 8-12 pounds of sun dried fruits, stone ground cereals and flour, powdered whole milk, almond butter, raw sugar, and concentrated powdered vegetables for vitality soups. At the CENTER, 146 Bonifacio Place, across from the First National Bank.

If you're quality conscious but budget minded, here's the thing for you! LOUISE CLEMONS Resell Shop in Monterey provides a unique service through which you can bring in clothing to sell, as well as buy for your own wardrobe. (But call before taking clothes in — this is by appointment only.) Many articles are labeled, and the prices — oh! Lots of items as low as one fourth the original cost! You can be sure of getting only the best when you shop at LOUISE CLEMONS, because she's very particular about what she buys. No need to urge you to stop in soon at LOUISE CLEMONS' Resell Shop, 263 Pacific in Monterey. The phone is 5823.

Don't moan and look dismally out the window at approaching rain clouds when it's washing time! The LITTLE GEM LAUNDRAMATIC at Junipero and Fourth can handle everything for you like magic. Clothes and linens which go into shining clean machines are fresh and spotless when you return. And it's so quick and easy; washing and drying in almost a jiffy!

"Lavender blue, dilly dilly, lavender green," or just about anything in the way of color, color, and springtime fragrance is awaiting you at FLOR DE MONTEREY. The shop is in bloom with gay tulips, bright daffodils, carnations, snapdragons, and loads of other cut flowers. Potted plants, too, are something you'll want to give and get, because they'll keep your garden in a colorful mood for a long time afterward. Azaleas, cyclamen, and tulips are but a few of these more permanent signs that soon everything will be back in bloom again. And don't forget FLOR DE MONTEREY'S corsages! Husbands beaux will be happy to hear of the quick service. You scarcely have time to catch your breath—and there it is! For all your flower wants and needs, it's FLOR DE MONTEREY, of course. 217 Franklin Street, just next to the Professional Building in Monterey.

Stumped on just the right gift for that baby shower? Or is there a new mother on your gift list? You'll find your answer at PUTNAM AND RAGGETT when you see Carters infants' and children's wear. Finest quality basic shirts, kimonas, and night gowns are just the thing for part of boby's first wardrobe. Carters infant's wear is so dainty and sweet, yet so practical! The kimonos come in pink, blue, or white, and the gowns are white, trimmed with pink or blue. We don't have to remind you that Carters provides the leading line of baby things in the United States, but did you know that PUTNAM AND RAGGETT is the only store in Carmel which handles this nationally advertised product? And while you're shopping for baby, be sure to see the women's gowns, panties, bed jackets and such, by Carters. Never let it be said that you forgot the new mother. PUTNAM AND RAGGETT is on Ocean at San Carlos.

"Where shall we eat?" asked a group of club ladies. Said one who knew, "Of course, the LA RIBERA HOTEL. The other night I had a most delicious cream of pea soup, roast lamb, nicely cooked broccoli, baked potato, crispy salad, scrumptuous deep dish apple pie, and excellent coffee—all for $1.85. Everything is good because ETHEL REXFORD is behind the scenes carefully watching every detail".

D.A.R. Meeting

Commodore Sloat Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution held its monthly meeting recently at the home of the regent, Mrs. Marcia F. DeVoe, with Miss Genevieve Reed as co-hostess. During the meeting money was contributed for the purpose of placing an elevator in Constitution Hall to the California Room, which houses many museum pieces from California.

Mrs. Markham Johnston gave a talk about her recent trip to Europe, stressing the need for tolerance of the European people's reconstruction program.

Guest members were Mesdames Arthur R. Johnson, Leda B. Halelt, Oliver Wetherbee Chapter of Coronado, and C. H. Maxson, Catlinite Chapter of Pipe Stone, Minn.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

How's Your Listening Time?

Buck Howell and I were in Baleville last week. Dropped in at Bob's diner where some friends were sitting around talking about whether to sell hogs now or wait.

Buck plunges right into the discussion. He's lecturing away when suddenly they all stand up and start stomping their feet like it was an Indian war dance.

I'm flabbergasted. But Buck only looked sheepish and explains, "Guess I was talking again, when I should-of been listening. When a person's talking time gets out of line with his listening time around here, the gang reminds him by standing up and stomping."

From where I sit, that's a good system. Everyone has a right to his opinions—but others have a right to theirs, too—whether it's deciding between to sell or not to sell, apple pie or cherry pie, or a glass of mellow beer or cider. Life's more interesting that way, and hang it if you don't sometimes learn something!

CLOSED FOR HAMLET

There will be no performance at the First Theatre, Monterey, this Saturday night as the Gold Coast Troupers are all going to see the Margaret Webster Shakespeare Players in Hamlet. The regular Saturday night performance at the First Theatre will be given, instead, on Sunday night, February 27, when Lady Winderwere's Fan will be shown.

There are but two performances left of this brilliant Oscar Wilde production, directed by Lee Crowe, the show closing on Saturday night, March 5, to make way for The Fatal Wedding, which will open March 11, directed by Freeman Sargent.

and Bill Varien are holdovers from last year's varsity, while newcomers Lee Laugenour, Dick Gargiulo, Bob Campbell, Walt Shaw, and Ted Nash will attempt to cop one of the flychaser spots.

SOME BUZZING ABOUT THE ABALONE LEAGUE

About this time of year, especially when the sun is shining, old Carmel residents begin wondering when the Abalone League will start functioning. For the benefit of newcomers, the Abalone League is not a protective society for the delicious tasting seafood, but it is the first softball league ever organized in the United States. The Abalone League is unique in that it sets aside some of the conventional rules of softball and substitutes its own code which suits the personalities playing the game. Anyone capable of pitching a fast ball is shooed away from the mound in Abalone League games and the emphasis is on the bowling type of pitch as exemplified by Ernie "Cigars" Morehouse.

Getting hit with a pitch just raises a welt on the hitter and does not allow him to take first base. There are no errors in this fun league as every time a batter reaches first base he is credited with a base hit. The league is lousy with .600 hitters. Jack Giles even hit .550, but his wife was the scorekeeper.

Girls play a prominent part in this family affair league with a member of the fair sex on first and second base. A junior member of the family must patrol the midfield of the ten-member team. The umpiring in the Abalone League is strictly professional. With Doc Staniford interpreting the play situations and the two Andys, Del Monte and Weimann, calling the decisions, the arbitrating is on a big league plane. For the past few seasons, games have been played each Sunday at the high school field, but it is entirely possible that activities will be shifted to Sunset this year. Most of the Abalone Leaguers aren't getting any younger and the shorter hustle to Sunset will appeal to them.

Don't be surprised if there is a meeting called within the next few days to elect captains, draw up a schedule, appoint umpires, mix the liniment, and make ready for Abalone League action.

Our Congressman Writes Home

By Ernest K. Bramblett

This week I have two items of special interest to report to Californians.

First is this. At the request of the House Committee on Agriculture, I may go to Mexico soon relative to the foot and mouth disease situation. The trip, to be made with fellow members of the sub-committee for control of this disease, will lead me to make a complete study of the matter.

Reports from Mexico are optimistic over action taken in our last Congress to help the neighboring nation. First action was to bring that disease under control—second, to eradicate it. Aside from being a "good neighbor" act, it was practical. We've kept the foot and mouth disease out of United States, thus eliminating financial losses that even in my own district would have been disastrous. Multiplied to a larger scale, it would have affected national economy.

I consider costs of vaccinating uninfected cattle and killing and burying those infected animals cheap insurance, even at $2,500,000 per month. We hear reports that the next six or eight months will tell the story of the two-country cooperation.

National and state agricultural men, including Assistant State Director of Agriculture Dr. C. E. Duckworth in California, have returned from Mexico urging that our committee go and study the problem first-hand, so that we might prepare needed legislation. We also will study importation of cattle from Swan Island in the Gulf of Mexico. If necessary, I will support legislation to stop importation of those cattle that might be infected.

I am convinced it should be good news to every Californian that the Federal Security Agency finally granted the state its 20 million dollars quarterly allotment for payment for assistance to the aged and blind. I think it should and could have been adjusted long ago. Holding up of those funds caused a lot of concern; the state government has been putting up the federal contributions.

Fashion Shows Starting

The Weekly Wednesday Fashion Show Luncheons will be resumed on Wednesday, March 2, in the Pine Room at the Pine Inn, when The Carmel Dress Shop will present the first fashion show. Following in succession will be those of The Cinderella Shop, The Country Shop, Gail Coupe, Harriet Duncan, The Lanz Shop and Silver Thimble,, Maxine's and the Banbox. Each shop will give two showings during the season.

Commentator this year will be Ellen Leeds, former Powers model from New York, whose experience in publicity and public relations in the fields of fashion and the theatre should add immeasurably to the interest of these events. Before coming to Carmel, Miss Leeds, assisting in a London theatrical production, had an opportunity to view the showings of both the London and Paris designers.

Reservations may be made by calling Carmel 600.

Composer Entertained

Aaron Avshalomoff, internationally known composer of Chinese music, visited briefly on the Peninsula this week. He was passing through en route to San Francisco, where on February 24, 25 and 26, the San Francisco Symphony, under Pierre Monteux, will perform one of his works, Piping Hutung, at the San Francisco Opera House. Mr. Avshalomoff was accompanied by his professional representative, Mrs. Minna Coe, and her husband, Mr. Willard Coe of Hollywood, and Indra Davi, teacher of Yogi and Indian dances. The composer is Director of the Institute of Music From China in Hollywood, where he has been at work since his arrival from China in 1947, preparing various of his works for American presentation.

Mr. Avshalomoff and his party were the guests of Lt. and Mrs. Peter Kim of Carmel. on Sunday evening an informal musicale was held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. E. T. Patee in their Pebble Beach home. The composer rendered portions of a number of his Chinese works on the organ and piano, and Miss Margaret Lea also played the organ.

Other guests who enjoyed the Patee's hospitality Sunday evening were Mrs. Sherman Mertz of Topeka, Kansas, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Palmatier, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Patee, Lt. and Mrs. Peter Kim, and Mrs. Grace Howden.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

"Christ Jesus" is the subject for the Christian Science Lesson-Sermon for Sunday, February 27, with the Golden Text taken from Isaiah: "There shall come forth a rod out of the stem of Jesse, and a Branch shall grow ouf of his roots" (11:1).

The following citations are included in the sermon:

The Bible: "And it came to pass in those days, that Jesus came from Nazareth of Galilee, and was baptized of John in Jordan. And straightway coming up out of the water, he saw the heavens opened, and the Spirit like a dove descending upon him: And there came a voice from heaven, saying, Thou art my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased" (Mark 1:9-11).

"Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "The real man being linked by Science to his Maker, mortals need only turn from sin and lose sight of mortal selfhood to find Christ, the real man and his relation to God, and to recognize the divine sonship" (p. 316).

"Winslow Boy" Opens At Playhouse With All English Cast

Terence Rattigan's The Winslow Boy will open at the Golden Bough Playhouse Monday with an experienced all-British cast, recruited entirely from Monterey Peninsula. The play is under the direction of Edward Kuster, who believes that his group of resident Britons is the most satisfying cast he has presented in years.

The Winslow Boy is based on one of the most famous trials in modern times. About the turn of the century a young English boy was summarily expelled from a government school, without trial, on suspicion of having stolen and cashed a postal money order belonging to a fellow-student. The boy's father, outraged by this show of despotic power, and convinced of his son's innocence, set the machinery of the law in motion. It soon developed that certain fundamental principles of democracy and of the rights of the individual were at issue. Eminent counsel were engaged and a desperate legal battle ensued, which lasted several years, resulting in the impoverishment of the boy's family, together with social ostracism.

The cast is headed by Rear Admiral James W. Ashton, D. S. O., late of the British Navy, playing the father; his sister, Sybil Skinner, wife of Rear Admiral Osborne Skinner, retired, also formerly of the British Navy, playing the mother; the Winslow Boy is played by Bryan Lambert, who came here from England two years ago, lives with his family in Carmel Valley and attends Monterey High School.

The others in the cast include Said Riza, instructor in the Army Language School at the Presidio, who has already given local audiences ample evidence of his fine acting talent; George Calvert, an RAF squadron leader during the late war; John Tyler, parachute officer in the African campaign, afterwards on the staff of the British Broadcasting Corporation and a member of the British Institute of Journalists; Verena Shaxon, who played in the original production of Noel Coward's Bittersweet, also with Maurice Chevalier in White Birds, and danced with Fred and Adele Astaire in Lady Be Good, besides playing many film roles in British studios; Alexander Merivale, playing the part of a stuffy solicitor; he is a retired English solicitor; Yvonne Gardner, recently over from England, playing the suffragette daughter of the Winslow family; and, lastly, Gabrielle Kuster, native of Suffolk and wife of the director in the "bit" role of newspaper reporter.

MOONLIGHT RENDEZVOUS

The Catholic Youth Organization will hold its first dance this Saturday, its theme a Moonlight Rendezvous, at Crespi Hall in the Carmel Mission, starting at 8:30 p. m. Peninsula youngsters, from high school through college age, are expected to join in the evening of fun and dancing to Ed Zubov's orchestra.

QUAKER TALKS

Interested audiences in Carmel last week listened to a message of hope and good will brought by Leta Cromwell, representative of the American Friends Service Committee, who visited the Monterey Peninsula in the course of a nationwide lecture tour. As a special observer of AFSC projects for relief and rehabilitation, Mrs. Cromwell has made two journeys through Europe in the past two years, her travels taking her from Finnish Lapland to Italy, from England to Poland.

Everywhere, amid rubble and ruins, she found magnificent courage and endurance, and a will to recover. She found gratitude for all aid received, but a strong desire not to be dependent upon the United States. Her talks before the various groups who heard her differed somewhat in content, but all emphasized the importance of friendship as well as material aid in restoring Europe's physical and psychological well-being and building a lasting peace.

On February 15, in the afternoon, she addressed the Women's Auxiliary of the Church of the Wayfarer; in the evening, Mrs. Glenn Clairmonte's current literature group; while on February 17 she spoke before the Men of the Wayfarer.

When the Adult Education Color Photo Appreciation Class meets tonight in room 11, Sunset School, at 7:30 o'clock, George Seideneck will judge the final entries for the contest of portraits of Mrs. Abel Warshawsky. Mr. Seideneck will also show color slides.

At the Monday, February 28, class (music room, 7:30 p. m.) two movies will be shown, Town in Old Mexico and American Portrait; also to be shown is Ansco's latest traveling show of prints.

The class is under the instruction of Leota Tucker, and the public is cordially invited to attend.

Margaret Webster Players In Hamlet At Sunset Saturday

Tomorrow night, Feb. 26, brings to Carmel the first professional New York Company ever to appear on the stage of the Sunset School Auditorium, the Denny-Watrous management presenting the Margaret Webster Shakespeare Company in Hamlet. Advance word from Philadelphia, Iowa, Chicago and various cities where the Margaret Webster players have appeared promises a metropolitan treat to lovers of stage plays and Shakespeare. "Alfred Ryder gave one of the best performances that I have ever seen. Evans and Carradine cannot compare with his modern approach to the part," declared the president of Bennington College, while the Boston Post said that Margaret Webster's production of Hamlet was "a great and thrilling theatrical adventure."

Titled by Brooks Atkinson of the New York Times "the best director of Shakespeare this town ever had," Margaret Webster has cast her actors from experienced and proven talent such as Carol Goodner, who starred in London with Marie Tempest, Rex Harrison, Robert Morley, etc., with many featured roles on Broadway, and who was last seen on the Pacific Coast in Blithe Spirit with Clifton Webb and Peggy Wood; Joseph Holland, veteran of Shakespearean productions with Leslie Howard, Katherine Cornell, etc., and younger actors from the American Repertory Theatre, the American Theatre Wing and from her own various casts of the many Broadway productions she has directed.

High-voltage trouble shooters

When winter storms hurl broken trees across power lines, trained P. G. and E. "trouble shooters" speed into action to restore your electricity. First step is to set up road blocks around the danger zone. Then, armed with "hot line" tools, the crewmen unscramble the high-voltage wires which may still be charged with electricity.

Next they cut out any sections that must be replaced, repair them fast and flash the word to the Dispatcher to begin pouring power back into the lines.

"SOS" is radioed or otherwise rushed to every "trouble man" in the area ...and the closest are assigned to the mission. If they need extra help, they call for reinforcements.

Lights go on again fast because P. G. and E. trouble shooters stand a 24-hour vigil. Their job is to keep power flowing to homes, farms and factories.

for the record

12,000 miles of new power lines have been strung since V-J Day.
This is just part of P. G. and E.'s postwar power-building program...
...that already has added half a million new horsepower of generating capacity.

Work never stops on our power-building program
